

SAVE OUR PLANET FESTIVAL

The theme of term one at Al Hoda Azhar was Save our Planet. Students embarked on long journey of reading, researching, collecting data and learning about this vital topic. All their hard work was presented in the school festival: Save our Planet.

The festival was packed with many inspiring activities and ideas. From choir and plays to inflatable games and telematch games; the day was indeed quite a thrill.

The highlight of the day was the students' presentations which were all made of recycled material in an attempt to raise awareness to the importance of saving our planet. Students also acquainted their visitors with many different ideas to save energy.

YOUNG EXPLORERS

Students who can't stop asking 'why'; students who love running their own experiments and students who never stop learning new things all gathered in the Young Explorers Day.

The event took place this week for all primary stages. The booths were held in the playground where students had a chance to learn and practice some PE activities.

IT'S ALL WRITE

That's the name of the writing display board where students from Primary 3 to 6 can display their writing articles. The board is already crammed with different writing genres as students are enthusiastically gearing up to display their work.

Not only did this idea encourage students to write and display their writing, but it also encouraged them to read for other students from different classes and even write small notes to their friends and stick them on the board. Two birds with one stone!

PERCENTAGE MATH PROJECT

Just like Alice in Wonderland, Primary 6 students traveled to the "Miracle of Math Town" where each student became a little owner of his own business. Students also got a little taste of the business world as they designed their own Flyers, presentations and offered discounts and special offers. Mathematical calculations were in every single step of their imaginary business world.

MULTIPLICATION IS EASY

In an attempt to help elementary students improve their multiplication fluency, Al Hoda School held a Multiplication Competition which was both motivating and entertaining.

Students had lots of fun playing math outdoor activities with their math teachers. The fresh air and the change of scenery were exactly what was needed to get students in gear. The online multiplication applications (Time Table Carnival) was definitely the highlight of the competition.
